Restaurant in Sydney, NSW Harry's Café de Wheels is over 70 years old, and has maintained a tradition of daily fresh deliveries of its pies. Originally supplied by Sargents Pies of Darlinghurst, then McKay & Boys of Granville and for the past fifteen years Hannah's (Harry's) pies of Ultimo. We set out to live up to the good name that Harry's and its suppliers forged over the years. We developed a range of pies and pasties with respect to the traditions of the past. Using the original ingredients and methods with modern knowledge, our aim was to develop and maintain the quality and original flavor of 1938 for the enjoyment of today's increasingly discerning consumers. Harry's Cafe de Wheels is a moveable food van, similar to those found at funfairs, with a hung awning. It has been moved a number of times in its history but the van is now permanently fixed on a masonry base. The caravan walls have been decorated with custom painted murals by Alan Puckett, a motoring art specialist. The inside walls of the cart are decorated with pictures and murals of famous visitors. The site is considered a Sydney icon and an institution in the local area. The significance of the location is reflected by its inclusion on the New South Wales National Trust register. The 1945 version of Harry's Pie Cart, retired after 40 years of use, is now located in the Powerhouse Museum collection. Harry's pies are supplied from Hannah's Pies, its factory in the inner city suburb of Ultimo.
