Watch Repair in Melbourne, VIC Omega Watch Repairs Melbourne is the ONLY independent dedicated Omega Watch Repair and Service facility in Australia. Our watchmaker, G. James Robinson, a Fellow of the British Horological Institute, perhaps the most senior watchmaker in Australia is highly skilled with well over fifty years' experience and specializes exclusively in all Omega watches including speedmaster, chronographs, Planet Ocean, Seamaster, Flightmaster, Deville, Constellation and all the Co-Axial movements. Please note that we are not a jewellery store but a dedicated Omega watch repair facility. All work is carried out in our own state of the art, fully Swiss equipped work room which is open for all to see. An Omega watch is a precision instrument made up of hundreds of tiny parts - make sure that you always have it serviced by a skilled watchmaker. Your Omega mechanical watch is driven by a very small mainspring which delivers only a small amount of power. To enable a watch to run with so little power, the gear pivots are extremely fine and in an Omega watch, run in jeweled bearings, oiled with the finest quality synthetic watch oils. Even these oils however, will in time lose their viscosity and break down. Adding fresh oil to old oil is very dangerous as it will create a grinding compound which will cause serious damage in a short time. There are other factors too; for example, the seals in the winding crown can become worn and allow dust particles into the watch which can also cause damage.
