Cooking School in Brisbane, QLD Most of the classes we run at the James St Cooking School are hands-on, allowing you full involvement in the cooking process. The lessons run for 3 hours, with between 10 - 20 people participating. We try to create a very social, friendly environment in our classes and everyone cooks as part of a team (so don't worry about coming along by yourself). Class begins with an introduction from the chefs, who will then demonstrate and explain the recipes for the evening. Working in groups of 3, 4 or 5, you and your classmates the class will then cook/prepare 3 or 4 dishes (varies from class to class and the complexity of the dishes). During this time the chefs are continually on hand to answer questions and assist you. At the end of the class everyone sits down to enjoy what they have made with a couple of glasses of matched wine or beer (unless stated otherwise, all our hands-on classes include a meal at the end of cooking and 2 glasses of wine or beer). Recipes from the class will be made available to you so you can recreate them at home. Our Pastries, Desserts, Curries of the World, Knives & Presentation and Stocks & Sauces classes. They are very hands-on and sometimes include take-home creations for your efforts however please refer to each individual class description for details. They usually include a short break which includes non-alcoholic beverages and a light meal prepared by our chefs. As with all the other classes, you will receive recipes and course notes.
