Motorcycle Training in Sydney, NSW We are the Australian branch of the California Superbike School. The California Superbike School has a bulletproof, step by step method for training riders in the exact skills of cornering motorcycles. We are not famous racers or great businessmen but we've become recognised worldwide, on four continents, because our system of training works and riders benefit from it. Each of our many riding discoveries over the past three decades cleanly and effectively shatters the targeted barrier or the uncertainty riders experience in their cornering. The Superbike School's program has matured and become integrated based on the experiences of real riders and their countless successes at overcoming their uncertainties, replacing them with skill and the real rush they've always wanted. As we forge these discoveries into defined skills and written material, we translate them into simple and understandable techniques to constantly refine our four levels of training. With more effective drills and ways to demonstrate and communicate them, the success rate climbs and climbs. Our students are coached by us and they learn. Their barriers get blown away and are replaced with confidence. For decades expert riders have proclaimed riding to be 90% mental. Keith Code is credited with breaking the sport down into its essential components and bringing real understanding to riders in all categories. His step by step approach will make sense to you. Each skill builds upon the last and creates a complete package of control and confidence.
