College in Ayr, QLD Burdekin Christian College commenced in 1982. We are situated at the corner of Melbourne and Chippendale Streets. Because of the availability of underground water its grounds are always green. Our College is a member of Independent Schools Old and Christian Schools Australia Queensland and has both a school and an early learning child care center. At the Burdekin Christian College we recognize that learning involves students, parents and teachers and we aim to provide the support needed to families so that this takes place. We also work with families to support them in reinforcing Biblical values, morals, discipline and standards of conduct. We realize that through education children are being prepared to be responsible and positive contributors to society and we also ensure that this is achieved by providing individual attention and personal care. We recognize that we can assist each child to prepare them to contribute to their family and their community and we endeavor to do this through academic success and spiritual, social, mental and physical blessing. The community of the Burdekin Shire is centered on the rich farming land of the Burdekin Delta. The principal towns are the twin towns of Ayr and Home Hill. The Burdekin is the largest sugar cane producing area in Australia and boasts the nation's largest water development project - the mighty Burdekin Dam, which is capable of supplying more than 1 million megalitres of water each average year to the Lower Burdekin area.
